Facility Snapshot/Description

The Kay County Detention Facility is [REDACTED] located in Newkirk, Oklahoma. The facility is operated by a governmental authority, The Kay County Justice Facilities Authority. The facility began housing ICE detainees on June 24, 2018. The facility currently houses male and female Kay County detainees, Oklahoma DOC inmates, Bureau of Indian Affairs detainees and female ICE detainees. [REDACTED]

The facility consists of a west side having housing pods surrounding a control tower where males are housed and an east side where pods also surround a control tower where females are housed. Currently county female detainees are housed in one pod and female ICE detainee are housed in four pods [REDACTED]. There is a pod dedicated for a Special Management Unit although no ICE detainees have been housed in it. Two of the pods have fifteen cells with two beds per cell and two have an open dormitory design. Detainees are supervised by roving officers and are under constant observation by the officer in the control tower. Cameras also monitor each unit from the facility's central control room located in between the two sides. Both cell and dormitory beds are available. Each housing unit has a dayroom which provides open space and seating for detainees to socialize and tables for board games. The dayrooms contain board games, a television, microwave, and video visitation kiosks. A law library computer and printer are available in a separate room. Each pod is equipped with a television, a bank of electronic tablets, and three detainee telephones. Detainees may visit with family and friends through on-site video equipment, through remote video equipment, or through an on-site non-contact visitation room. Recreation is provided through a gymnasium and an outdoor recreation yard.

Medical, dental and mental health services are provided by employees or contractors of Turn Key Health Clinics. ICE detainees are not charged co-pays for medical, dental or mental health services. All other services are provided by Kay County employees.
