Facility Snapshot/Description

The Alamance County Detention Center was built in 2007 and is operated by the Alamance County Sheriff’s Office. The facility is located in Graham, North Carolina, approximately 55 miles northwest of Raleigh, North Carolina. This IGSA [REDACTED] employs the indirect model of supervision to male and female inmates for Alamance County, State Misdemeanor Confinement Program (SMCP), U.S. Marshals Service, and ICE. The facility houses non-ICE juvenile detainees in the east wing of the jail; however, no juveniles were being housed in the facility at the time of inspection. [REDACTED]

The facility maintains 22 housing units with two housing units dedicated to housing ICE detainees. Housing assignments are based on same custody levels with an open dormitory style arrangement for low and medium-low custody level detainees, and single occupancy celled housing for medium-high and high custody level ICE detainees. The facility does not maintain a dedicated special management housing unit (SMU). Detainees requiring special management housing are transferred to another facility within 24 hours. Onsite inspectors found the living units to be well lit with both natural and artificial light and observed adequate open space for detainees. The dayrooms in each of the housing units are furnished with tables and chairs for detainees to participate in leisure time activities and socializing. Board games, leisure reading material, playing cards, and televisions are among the amenities available to detainees. Computer tablets and kiosks, programmed to allow detainees to communicate with ICE electronically and participate in video visitation with family and friends from remote locations, are available in the housing units. Video visitation was available onsite, free of charge prior to March 2020 and COVID 19 restrictions. Currently, video visitation is available for a fee. Other COVID-19 response operational changes include all newly received detainees are quarantined and COVID-19 tested upon admission to the facility. One deportation officer is assigned onsite to coordinate admissions, releases, and communications between staff and ICE detainees. There is no outdoor recreation available. Detainees use housing unit dayrooms for recreation.

The facility is climate controlled and the physical plant was found to be in good repair. All staff interviewed was well-versed in facility guidelines and operating procedures as well as the National Detention Standards. Officers and staff were professional during interviews and detainees that agreed to be interviewed spoke willingly and respectfully. A review of sanitation inspection reports, interviews with staff and detainees, and observation of onsite inspectors concluded that the sanitation level of the facility was adequate.
