The Nye County Detention Center is owned by Nye County and operated by the Nye County Sheriff’s Office in Pahrump, Nevada. The facility opened in 2012 and houses male and female local jail inmates and male detainees for the USMS and ICE. [REDACTED]

The facility is a single level, podular design structure with the housing units surrounding a single control center. The housing units are under visual supervision of detention technicians in the control center. Roving housing unit deputies provide additional supervision. The facility is currently housing male ICE detainees of all custody classifications. The electronic Guardian System tracks all facility and detainee activity “in real time”.

ICE detainees are housed with other detainees with compatible classification designations. Detainees were relaxed and were observed socializing in their housing unit dayrooms, watching television, talking on the telephones and visiting on the tablets. General visitation is conducted via video. Outdoor recreation is provided.

All areas of the facility were toured during the inspection and sanitation was noted to be average in most areas.

During the inspection, team members toured the housing units multiple times interviewing detainees either in groups or in a private, confidential setting. No less than twenty-two detainees were interviewed. LEP detainees were interviewed by the bilingual inspector. No detainees expressed any concerns about their treatment by staff and all stated they felt safe at the facility. There were no substantive complaints about food or medical services. Detainees stated that “they like the tablets and text messaging device”. One detainee stated that his video visit with his wife was “cut of”. The sergeant assisted the detainee to resolve the concern. Five detainees were asked if they had used the OIG hotline. All five stated “that they
