U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement

Madison D. Sheahan

Deputy Director

Madison Sheahan is a member of the Senior Executive Service and the deputy director of U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement. Ms. Sheahan oversees ICE's day-to-day operations, leading over 20,000 employees— including over 6,800 criminal investigators in Homeland Security Investigations and 6,000 officers in Enforcement and Removal Operations. She oversees personnel assigned to more than 400 domestic and international offices and administers an annual budget of greater than $9 billion.

Prior to serving as ICE's deputy director, Ms. Sheahan served as the Secretary of the Louisiana Department of Wildlife and Fisheries, overseeing a $280 million budget and leading a team of over 800 employees across the wildlife, fisheries, and enforcement divisions. She established the Special Operations Group within the enforcement division to prioritize public safety, cementing historic partnerships with federal, state and local law enforcement agencies for major events such as Mardi Gras and Super Bowl LIX. In this role, she also advised Governor Jeff Landry as a member of the state's cabinet and Unified Command Group.

Prior to serving the State of Louisiana alongside Governor Landry, Ms. Sheahan worked for former South Dakota Governor Kristi Noem in various leadership positions. Including in the governor's official office, the state republican party, and on special initiatives aimed at advancing the governors agenda. She played a major role in passing one of the strongest bills in the nation protecting women's sports.

Ms. Sheahan is a proud graduate of The Ohio State University, where she was a member of the women's rowing team and earned a bachelor's degree in public affairs, public management, leadership, policy, and agribusiness, with minors in community and business leadership.
